This Week's Message:

"In response to the question about the first of the commandments, Jesus says 'The first is, "Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God, the Lord is one; and you shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind, and with all your strength." The second is this, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself." There is no other commandment greater than these.'

"The apostle Paul reminds us of this: 'He who loves his neighbor has fulfilled the law. The commandments, "You shall not commit adultery, You shall not kill, You shall not steal, You shall not covet," and any other commandment, are all summed up in this sentence, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself.' Love does no wrong to a neighbor; therefore love is the fulfilling of the law."

OCTOBER IS RESPECT LIFE MONTH

With his final breaths on the Cross, Jesus entrusts Mary and the Beloved Disciple to one another, and by extension establishes a maternal relationship between Mary and the Church. Jesus' words are addressed not only to Saint John, but to each one of us. In this moment, the physical mother of Jesus becomes the spiritual mother of the Church and all the faithful. Saint John goes on to take Mary into his home and cares for her as she advances in age, demonstrating our responsibility to continue our care for human life, from conception to natural death. Mary, who taught us how to nurture human life, becomes the recipient of that same honor and care.

The life of the Blessed Mother teaches us to respect each human life in every stage and circumstance. Mary is our model for upholding the sanctity of all human life. O Mary, "Mother of the living, to you do we entrust the cause of life."

JOHN PAUL II PROVIDES MORAL FOUNDATION FOR AI. More than three decades later, as artificial intelligence reshapes education, medicine, work and personal relationships, and amid Pope Leo XIV first encyclical, "Magnifica Humanitas," that message is finding new relevance, experts say.

"John Paul II would probably say today: Let us use artificial intelligence, but let it serve the human person," Father Józef Kloch, a professor at the Pontifical University of John Paul II in Kraków, told OSV News.

Father Kloch has studied artificial intelligence, or AI, for more than 30 years. He believes John Paul II's approach to technology offers a useful starting point for some of today's most difficult questions that Pope Leo also addresses in his encyclical: What makes human intelligence different from AI? How much responsibility can people delegate to machines? And at what point does a helpful tool begin to replace human judgment? For Father Kloch, the pope's response to an earlier technological revolution is revealing. "He recognized the change almost as it was happening." But the pope did more than write about technology. He encouraged the Church to use it. During his pontificate, the Vatican developed its presence online, launching its official website on Christmas Day in 1995.

In his 1990 message, John Paul II encouraged Catholics to make creative use of new communications systems, seeing opportunities for dialogue, education and the spread of the Gospel in the computer age. Yet he also insisted that technological progress required moral direction — a line sounding again familiar after the May 25 presentation of "Magnifica Humanitas" in the Vatican. https://www.osvnews.com/48-years-after-installation-st-john-paul-ii-provides-moral-foundation-for-todays-tech-race/

Today, as one Catholic family, we launch the Catholic Services Appeal (CSA).

Our theme, Together, we are one, reminds us that when we give together, the Church is able to serve, teach, heal, form, and accompany people across our diocese as one community of faith. Please prayerfully com plete your pledge card today or make a secure gift online at austindiocese.org/give. Thank you for joining together to help our parish share in the mission of the Church.
